Departmental Programmes of Teaching, Learning and Assessment (DPTLA)

Review of Department of Economics: Thursday 24 January 2008

Report Summary

The following is a brief summary of the full report of the review carried out in the Department of Economics. Reviews of Departmental Programmes of Teaching, Learning and Assessment (DPTLA) are internal subject reviews focused on the quality of provision as experienced by students. The review looks at the range of programmes, course content, the teaching methods employed, assessment, facilities and much more.

The full report of the review is available publicly at:

Conclusions

The Review Panel commends the Department on its awareness of its strengths and weaknesses and its willingness to address issues as they arise and, although a number of recommendations have been made, they are made to enhance the quality of the student experience, and the management of teaching and learning. The Panel was impressed by the Department’s rapid recovery from a time of intense change and its development into a thriving department, and congratulates the Head of Department whose success in leading the Department to its current position was borne out by the high regard with which staff spoke of him.

Key Strengths

- An open, dynamic and reflective environment supportive of enhancement of the student experience.
- Support provided for international students by the Faculty International Officer.
- Cohesion amongst staff, both academic and administrative, who were described as supportive, helpful and friendly by probationary staff and students.
- The range of provision available and its match with market demand as demonstrated by successful recruitment.
• The Department’s concern for, and awareness of, the employability of its graduates which it promotes through the curriculum and extracurricular initiatives.
• The rapid and strategic development of Postgraduate Taught Provision.
• Successful recruitment of international students to postgraduate taught programmes.
• The Department’s international focus with a remarkable 90% of postgraduate taught students from outwith the European Union, a notable number of international staff and links being developed with a number of institutions outwith the UK.
• The Head of Department’s leadership skills.

Glossary of terms/acronyms used

Employability

Employability is about more than being able to get a job after University. It is about acknowledging and being able to articulate achievements, understanding and personal attributes that will contribute to success both during, and after, University.

Enhancement

The University has adopted the Quality Assurance Agency’s definition of ‘enhancement’ which is - ‘the process of taking deliberate steps at institutional level to improve the quality of learning opportunities.’

Enquiry-led Learning or Enquiry-based Learning

The University of Manchester’s Centre for Excellence in Enquiry-Based Learning describes Enquiry-Based Learning as “an environment in which learning is driven by a process of enquiry owned by the student”. It can include various forms of teaching, such as problem based learning, small scale investigations, projects and research, that encourage students to take responsibility for their learning experience. It is also the subject of the University’s strategic aim set out in the University’s Learning and Teaching Strategy 2006-10, which is for the University to “be renowned internationally for enquiry-led learning in a knowledge culture shaped by the richness and diversity of our research environment.”

Graduate Teaching Assistant or GTAs

Graduate Teaching Assistants, Tutors and Laboratory Demonstrators are students, usually research students, who assist with teaching in the form of tutorials, labs and other activities that are part of undergraduate programmes in the department. They are paid an hourly rate by the University.

Performance and Development Review (staff)

Performance and Development Review is a scheme that provides all employees with opportunity to discuss important information about their job, to give and receive constructive information and feedback, and establish any relevant learning and development needs. It also provides a mechanism through which individual job responsibilities and contributions can be linked to department / faculty strategic objectives.

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is defined as the submission or presentation of work, in any form, which is not one’s own, without acknowledgement of the sources. Special cases of plagiarism can also arise from one student copying another student's work or from inappropriate collaboration.

Student Representation

Student Representation involves the election by groups of students of one or more of their number to represent their views and opinions in meetings at departmental, faculty or University level. There are many activities and fora where the input of student representatives provides valuable feedback to the University on the quality of the student experience.

Study abroad

Study abroad is a term that is often used to refer to several programmes that offer opportunities for students to study in a European University, or one further afield, for a term, semester or year as part of their undergraduate degree programme. (The University’s “Study Abroad Programme” is specifically for designed for visiting students who elect to come to the University of Glasgow.)

Turnitin

Turnitin is a remotely hosted, web based service that compares submitted material, e.g. a student’s essay, with a wide range of sources and produces an originality report. It is intended to be a tool which can support students in their understanding and avoidance of plagiarism and can be used to quickly and efficiently locate sources of material in cases of suspected plagiarism. Turnitin originality reports can be used to highlight to students, with real examples, the exact meaning of the term plagiarism.
