Two major donations in support of the University’s Centre for Robert Burns Studies have been received by the American Alumni of Glasgow University (AAGU), including a matched gift from The Cola-Cola Foundation.

The Centre for Robert Burns Studies was established in 2007 and its mission is the development of research, scholarship and teaching in the area of Robert Burns, his cultural period and related literature. The Susan and Frank Shaw Fund at the centre will be used to foster links with other institutions working in the area of Robert Burns, to encourage Robert Burns studies through publications and events, and support academic and student exchanges both within the UK and globally.

The first donation was made by Frank and Susan Shaw, who then facilitated the matched gift from The Coca-Cola Foundation.

‘We were made to feel welcome from the first day we met the centre’s various representatives, and it became apparent to us that Glasgow would become the fifth educational institution we have either endowed or gifted to. We look forward to working together for many years to come.’

Professor Carruthers said, ‘This support means a great deal to us, especially as Frank and Susan are such great friends and have been a key influence on our plans since the centre started. The fund will contribute to some of our exciting events and projects in the coming year.’

For further information about supporting Glasgow from the US, or about the AAGU and matched giving see www.glasgow.ac.uk/givefromtheUSA.

Message from the Director

This edition of Giving to Glasgow clearly shows we are already beginning to see the generosity of our graduates towards the new Postgraduate Scholarship Funds. Gifts to these funds support postgraduate scholarships across campus and allow donors to choose an area of particular personal interest to them. That interest may be in one of our excellent research areas, such as Robert Burns studies, or in a person held in affection by the donor, as we see with the Hugh Sutherland Fund which directly assists in Hugh’s field of civil engineering.

As our fundraising develops to reflect the new college structure, it is heartening to see such progress and support for the Postgraduate Scholarship Funds as we have seen with the highly successful Talent Scholarship scheme, also covered in this edition. It is great to be able to report that the support for our scholarships is gathering the same momentum as we have seen over the years with our capital projects. For this support the University community is most grateful.

Law: 300 years on

This year the School of Law is celebrating the 300th anniversary of the Regius Chair of Law at the University of Glasgow.

The Chair of Law is one of 13 Regius Professorships at Glasgow – positions created by the monarchy at the UK’s ancient universities – and was founded in December 1713 with an endowment from Queen Anne. The first holder, William Forbes, was appointed in 1714. It has been held since by a long list of distinguished legal scholars, including John Millar, William Gloag, Andrew Dewar Gibb MBE QC, David Walker CBE QC, Joseph Thomson and most recently James Chalmers.

To celebrate the Tercentenary anniversary of this historic Chair, the School of Law is hosting a number of events for friends and alumni, including a drinks reception in London in June and a formal alumni dinner in September.

If you would like to register your interest in attending these events or would like more information about supporting Law at the University of Glasgow, please contact Bicola Barratt-Crane on Bicola.Barratt-Crane@glasgow.ac.uk or +44 (0)141 330 7148.

Remembering Hugh Sutherland

In December 2011, the University was sad to announce the death of Professor Hugh Sutherland, former Cormack Professor of Civil Engineering, and one of the most popular faces around campus. Hugh’s legendary affinity with the University was founded during his time as a lecturer and after his retirement from teaching when he became the first Director of the University Trust. Hugh dedicated almost 50 years of his life to the University.

To continue his legacy, the University has set up the Hugh B Sutherland Postgraduate Scholarship in Civil Engineering. This fund has been supported by a generous donation from Hugh’s family and friends, and in December 2012 the University launched a fundraising appeal to those who would have known Hugh, including former students and colleagues.

We have had a fantastic response to the appeal, and thanks to the generosity of our supporters we have received 41 gifts to the scholarship fund, amounting to over £44,000. These funds will allow the University to continue to attract and support to an audience, and, we hope, to provide a first step to a successful career.’

This new postgraduate scholarship fund is the next chapter in Theatre, Film & Television Studies at Glasgow, allowing us to support the future of the subject with the best new research talent as well as helping excellent students take the next steps in their academic careers.

- If you would like more information about supporting Theatre, Film & Television Studies at the University and the relaunch of the Gilmorehill Building, please contact Bicola Barratt-Crane on Bicola.Barratt-Crane@glasgow.ac.uk or +44 (0)141 330 7148.

The next chapter for Theatre, Film & Television Studies

A new postgraduate scholarship fund in Theatre, Film & Television Studies is being launched as part of our new College Scholarships scheme, designed to support our next generation of postgraduate students with £5,000 scholarships for tuition fees.

The launch of the fund coincides with the renovation of the Gilmorehill Building, which has been home to Theatre, Film & Television Studies since 1997 when Richard Wilson, famed actor and then Rector of the University, opened the Centre for Theatre, Film & Television Studies at Glasgow. It will also continue the tradition of philanthropic support for Arts at Glasgow, evident in such initiatives as the Alasdair Cameron Scholarship in Theatre Studies.

The Alasdair Cameron Scholarship was established to celebrate the life and work of Dr Alasdair Cameron, a Theatre Studies alumnus and Senior Lecturer in the Department, who died suddenly in 1994. It offers financial support each year to a senior Theatre Studies student or recent graduate to create a piece of performance art. Dr Peter Urbach, a key supporter of the scholarship, said: ‘I am happy to be amongst those who are able to give scholars the opportunity to practise the skills they have learned and present their creative work in a person held in affection by the donor, as we see with the Hugh Sutherland Fund which directly assists in Hugh’s field of civil engineering.

Celebrating Glasgow’s talent

Recipients of this year’s Talent Scholarships were congratulated by award-winning crime writer Louise Welsh (pictured) and Vice-Principal for Learning & Teaching Professor Frank Coton, at an awards ceremony held in February. The annual ceremony marks the achievement of the students who have shown outstanding academic merit in being selected for their scholarship and enables donors and supporters to meet with the students.

Louise Welsh highlighted the importance of the Talent Scholarship Scheme: ‘I was the first to go to University in my extended family and it opened up a whole new world for me. I would like to thank our alumni and donors for contributing to the next generation and changing lives. If there’s one thing that enables us to throw off restrictions, to throw off shackles, it’s access to education.’

The Talent Scholarship Scheme, established in 2007, enables academically outstanding students to attend University who might otherwise be prevented through financial pressures. Approximately 50 scholarships are awarded annually and there are currently 220 Talent Scholars across all four colleges within the University.

For Business & Management student Greg Campbell, receiving the Talent Scholarship enabled him to concentrate on his studies rather than worry about his finances. ‘I was the first person in my entire family to go to University, so the scholarship has given me the independence to pursue a University career.’

The family of successful actuary Alexander Shedden has endowed a new Talent & Travel Scholarship in his memory. From the Battlefield area of Glasgow, Alexander had never considered attending University until winning an annual competition for bursary support. Alexander was encouraged to enrol and graduated with a first-class Honours degree in Maths and Natural Philosophy in 1948.

John Shedden said of his father: ‘He had never considered the possibility of going to university because he felt it was not an option for someone from his background. Eventually however, having taken advice, he decided to do maths and science. This led to my father having a successful and rewarding career rising through the ranks of his profession to become Deputy Chief Executive at Standard Life and President of the Faculty of Actuaries.

‘He would never have been able to go to university without the benefit of the bursaries he received and this education opened up a world of opportunity. My family are therefore pleased to endow this talent scholarship in his name in the hope that it will help to open up a similar world of opportunity to young people who might otherwise find it difficult to fund a university education.’

Calling all alumni

Our alumni community is a hugely valued part of the life of the University and we like to keep in touch with as many of our alumni as possible. One way we do this is through our regular telephone campaigns. These campaigns are a great opportunity for alumni to support the fantastic initiatives taking place at Glasgow, while sharing their memories of the University and the city.

Over the years the University has benefited enormously from the generosity of its graduates and friends, and since 2003 over £1 million has been pledged as a result of receiving a phone call from one of our student callers. This crucial support helps keep Glasgow at the forefront of education as a worldwide centre of excellence, offering a fantastic student experience, cutting-edge facilities, and opportunities to all through scholarships.

University of Glasgow graduate Andrew McKenzie (BSc Physics, 1996) chose to donate to the University after receiving a call through the telephone campaign: ‘I had always wanted to give back to one of my universities and as I am now in a financial position to do so the phone call prompted me to do something about it. The discussion about what the funds support made it clear to me that giving someone access to higher education who otherwise couldn’t afford it was the best option.’

Our calling team consists of 26 students, all of whom discuss current developments at the University, update our alumni on relevant information and answer any of the questions our alumni might have.

Graduate Saskia Birlenbach (MA Social Sciences, 2005) said of her call: ‘I really enjoyed this campaign a lot! I think it is a really great idea and a great way to keep in touch with Glasgow. It’s been a pleasure to speak to and share my post-University life with a present student at the University. The call put me back in touch with all my lovely memories and the amazing life I lived while in Glasgow.’

Postgraduate Law student Owen Wilton (pictured above), has been part of the Telephone Campaign since he joined the University in 2011. We asked Owen, now a campaign supervisor, about his experience.

Do you enjoy working as part of the telephone campaign?
It’s been a wonderful place to work, both because of the great student team in the call room, and all the conversations I’ve had with the Glasgow alumni.

Why do you think it’s a good way to keep in touch with our alumni?
It’s very personal and direct, and it’s a two-way communication: we are able to hear what our graduates think, what they’ve experienced, and how they would like to help. Of course, not everyone is in a position to donate, and that’s perfectly understandable. Lots of alumni look forward to telling their stories and we really enjoy hearing them – it’s why we signed up! Our callers can say very honestly that the campaign isn’t all about raising money.

Best phone call to date?
Can I pick two? The first graduate was very senior in a global company and not only did he want to make a generous regular gift but also wanted to know how he could get involved with persuading others to do the same. The second was a recent graduate who had just started a dream job but not one that was very well paid. He still chose to give a one-off donation to a scholarship fund supporting students in his old discipline, showing how much he obviously still cared about it. Both alumni were in very different circumstances but showed exactly the same spirit.

What’s your favourite cause to fundraise for and why?
Fundraising is hugely important. Our fundraising campaigns enable us to do things we wouldn’t normally be able to do. A great example is the Beatson Pebble Appeal, which has really struck a chord with our graduates and the result is something pretty extraordinary. However, I always make the case for the scholarship funds; I don’t think there are many areas that offer a greater return on investment than education.

• Our office exists to serve our University of Glasgow alumni, and we are always pleased to hear from you. If you would like more information on the Development & Alumni Office or the telephone campaign itself, please visit our website at www.glasgow.ac.uk/alumni.

Making a gift to the University in your will

Throughout its history, the University of Glasgow has been the fortunate and appreciative beneficiary of many bequest gifts from its alumni, friends and supporters.

A gift in your will can benefit a specific area of research or a school, support a scholarship or chair, fund a piece of equipment or be unrestricted, allowing us to direct it to where the need is greatest. Gifts of all sizes are extremely valuable and will make a lasting contribution to our work.

Did you know that making a charitable gift in your will could also reduce your inheritance tax liability? Gifts left to charities like the University are tax exempt and where 10% of an estate is left to charity, a reduced rate of inheritance tax of 36% will be applied.

Many of our enquiries about giving a bequest gift are made during our telephone campaigns and we are always delighted to answer any legacy-related questions or send further information, perhaps about supporting specific areas of the University or about naming a donation to allow a donor or loved one to be remembered in perpetuity.

• For further information about leaving a gift in your will please contact Mrs Barrie Bryson on +44 (0)141 330 6886 or email: Barrie.Bryson@glasgow.ac.uk.

Nurturing our vets of the future

Thanks to our donors, the James Herriot Scholarship Fund now stands at over £30,000. Gifts will enable the Vet School to award scholarships to excellent veterinary students who, through financial constraints, may otherwise not be able to study at Glasgow. These scholarships will be crucial in providing opportunity to the most promising individuals from home and around the world, helping to develop the clinical academic leaders of the future and to train a new generation equipped to tackle future global challenges in animal health and welfare.

The University was delighted to receive support from Laura Henderson who graduated from Glasgow Vet School in 2008. Laura thoroughly enjoyed her time at University: 'The best thing about being at Glasgow was being allowed to be me, not what other people wanted me to be.'

Laura told us why she chose to support the University in this way: ‘I did it because I still feel a part of the University and I wanted to give something back.’

Rosie Page (pictured) is the daughter of Alf Wight – who, as James Herriot, is one of the University’s most famous alumni. She visited the University recently to take a look around the Vet School that her father had told her was so close to his heart.

Rosie told us why she and her brother Jim are delighted that the Fund is named after their father: ‘Through his writing our father gave great prominence to, and enhanced the image of, the veterinary profession that continues today. I am certain he would have approved of his name being used to support and train our new generation of veterinary students.’

Get active for Glasgow

Ashley McGuigan has been taking part in Cycle Glasgow as one of Team McGuigan’s enthusiastic cyclists for the last ten years. Ashley, her family and friends decided to get involved with the event after her father, John, was treated at the Paul O’Gorman Leukaemia Research Centre in Glasgow.

Each year, Ashley begins her training by getting on her bike at weekends and increasing the distance over a few months: ‘Build up your training gradually. It could be that you haven’t cycled for a while. If that’s the case, you need to ease into it and more importantly have fun! It gives me a goal to work towards and raises money for a charity close to my heart.’

Cycle Glasgow is a fun, family cycle ride aimed at riders of all abilities. To date we have raised over £350,000 through our 13 or 26 mile sponsored cycles, which has been integral to the opening of the Paul O’Gorman Leukaemia Research Centre.

Cycle Glasgow will take place this year on Sunday, 18 August. For more information on the event or to volunteer, please visit www.glasgow.ac.uk/cycleglasgow or phone +44 (0)141 330 3593.

Supporting breakthrough research

Young scientists are essential to the future success of the teaching and research programmes within the College of Medical, Veterinary & Life Sciences. The Medical Fund was set up to support a huge variety of important research projects, including Dr Christina Halsey’s research into childhood leukaemia.

One of the major challenges in childhood leukaemia is how best to prevent and treat disease spreading to the brain. Christina and her colleagues are using a combination of samples direct from patients and cells grown in the laboratory to investigate the ways leukaemic cells navigate around the body and to see if altering this navigation system can redirect cells away from the brain. She hopes their research findings will allow them to design more targeted and effective therapy in the future.

If you would like to help support this or other research programmes being carried out by our young scientists, you can do so through the Medical Fund.

Gift Aid it

Gift Aid is a UK government tax scheme. As an exempt charity, the University of Glasgow/University of Glasgow Trust (The University) can reclaim basic rate tax on qualifying donations from UK tax payers. This applies to donations you have made in the last four years and from the date of this declaration, until you notify us otherwise.

To enable the University to reclaim Gift Aid, please sign and date the Gift Aid declaration below.

I would like the University to treat all qualifying donations as Gift Aid donations. I confirm I have paid or will pay an amount of Income Tax and/or Capital Gains Tax for each tax year (6 April to 5 April) that is at least equal to the amount of tax that all charities or Community Amateur Sports Clubs (CASCs) that I donate to will reclaim on my gifts for that tax year. I understand that other taxes such as VAT and Council Tax do not qualify. I understand the University will reclaim 25p of tax on every £1 that I have given in the last four years and from the date of this declaration until I notify you otherwise.

Please notify the University if you:

1. Want to cancel this declaration / Change your name or home address / No longer pay sufficient tax on your income and/or capital gains.

Giving to Glasgow: how you can help make a difference

Direct Debit
If you would like to join the growing number of people who have chosen to support the University of Glasgow, please complete the direct debit form at the bottom of this page and return it to the Development & Alumni Office, 3 The Square, University of Glasgow, Glasgow G12 8QQ. Please keep the Direct Debit Guarantee slip at the very bottom of the page for future reference.

Bequests
Bequests are favoured by many alumni and friends who want to make a difference after their death. A gift of this kind also helps to reduce your inheritance tax liability.

Stocks and shares
Since 6 April 2000, individuals have been eligible for tax relief on gifts of certain shares, securities and other investments. This is in addition to capital gains tax relief on gifts of assets to charity. Tax relief for donors is based on the value of the shares on the day they are transferred to the University. If you would like to support your chosen project by gifting shares and securities, why not like more information, simply call the Development & Alumni Office on +44 (0)141 330 4951.

Giving from the USA
US taxpayers can give tax-deductible gifts to the American Alumni of Glasgow University, an independent charitable corporation organised in the United States that has been recognised by the Internal Revenue Service as a section 501(c)(3) charitable organisation. All donations to it are deductible as charitable contributions to the full extent permitted by law. Its Board of Directors will determine the use of all gifts. Contributions should be made payable to American Alumni of Glasgow University and sent to AAGU, 183 Wolf Harbor Road, Milford, CT 06461–1961, USA.

Giving from Canada
Canadian residents will be provided with a receipt for their tax records from the University. Cheques should be made payable to ‘University of Glasgow’ (and not the University Trust) to be able to claim tax relief.

Data Protection Act 1998
Under the codes of the 1998 Data Protection Act, the University of Glasgow will use the information provided by you for University education, social and charitable purposes only.
