How to find us

If you travel by car, there are metered parking bays in the streets around the University, including the St. Andrew's Building. For blue badge holders there are designated parking bays in the small car park at the front of the St. Andrew's Building, available on a first come, first served basis. To register your requirement to use one of these bays, or other bays elsewhere on campus, please contact the Information Office by telephone on +44 (0)141 330 1835 or by email:

openstudies-enquiry@glasgow.ac.uk

There are bus stops (bus numbers 4 and 4A) just outside the building on Woodlands Road and Eldon Street. Alternatively, it is only a short walk from Kelvinbridge Underground station and the bus stops on Great Western Road.

Useful Information

Credit & non-credit courses

Our programme includes credit and non-credit courses.

The majority of our courses have no entry qualifications, no formal examinations, and usually no requirement for previous subject knowledge.

Each credit course in this brochure is marked with the number of credits awarded on successful completion of the intended learning outcomes. Credit courses are designed for students who wish to study for credit, but are also open to students who prefer not to complete assessment, but wish to study for interest only. If you are working for credit you will be entitled to a University Student card.

For more information on courses please visit: gla.ac.uk/study/short/

Certificate in Higher Education

If you achieve 120 credits you may be eligible for a Certificate in Higher Education. The certificate can be a general or a named certificate depending on the number of credits achieved within a specific subject area.

Information on the certificates that we offer can be found on our website at: gla.ac.uk/study/short

Using credit courses to apply for undergraduate study

It may be possible to use certain credit courses to apply for undergraduate study at the University of Glasgow. If you would like to progress to undergraduate study you should contact Irene Vezza (Student Guidance Adviser) prior to enrolment to ensure eligibility and to check your study programme.

Essential additional information and guidelines will be available at: gla.ac.uk/study/short

If you wish to discuss your plans for studying on our courses or your options for the future, you are welcome to contact the Centre for Open Studies Guidance Officer, Irene Vezza.

Ancient Egypt and the Ancient Near East —

Ancient Egyptian archaeology - people and places 1A

Day: Wednesday 30/09/15 – 02/12/15
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

The course focuses on the material culture of both lived and funerary spaces in ancient Egypt. Students will be introduced to the main issues governing the theory and practice of Egyptian archaeology to provide background for more specific case studies of sites from the Old Kingdom to the end of the New Kingdom.

Tutors: Claire Gilmour MA MLitt
Credits: 10 Cost: £115.00
Course code: 8659
Online study available

Ancient Egyptian texts 1A

Day: Thursday 01/10/15 – 03/12/15
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

Aimed at complete beginners, this course teaches you how to read ancient Egyptian hieroglyphs. As well as learning to recognise the most common signs, you will also be grounded in Middle Egyptian grammar with a view to reading funerary inscriptions. The religious and social lives of the ancient Egyptians are also studied to put the texts we read into their cultural context.

Tutors: William Manley BA PhD
Credits: 10 Cost: £115.00
Course code: 6924

More reading in ancient Egyptian

Day: Thursday 01/10/15 – 03/12/15
Time: 11.00 – 13.00

This course is aimed at those who have a basic knowledge of Middle Egyptian hieroglyphs and who wish to continue to develop their reading skills. The course will focus on case study texts which will be read together in class. Some grammar will be covered for revision purposes, but the course is not suitable for complete beginners.

Coptic: the language and lives of early Christians in Egypt

Day: Thursday 01/10/15 – 17/03/16
Time: 14.00 – 16.00

This course provides a unique opportunity to learn basic skills for reading Coptic – the language of the indigenous Christians of first millennium Egypt – using texts that document the lives of the villagers and monks, as well as passages from the New Testament and apocryphal gospel.

Waterloo uncovered: the archaeology an iconic battle

Day: Saturday 17 October 2015
Time: 10.00-17.00

2015 marks the bicentenary of the Battle of Waterloo which saw the defeat of Napoleon's forces. With the aim of transforming our understanding of the Waterloo battle site, a new archaeological project has begun, directed in the field by Tony Pollard of the University of Glasgow in partnership with the Goldstream Guards. The special day event will feature experts on the politics, the weaponry and military forces, and the artistic and monumental legacy of the battle, as well as Dr. Pollard himself talking about the results of the project, and will include a chance to see and handle some of the exciting finds that have just come to light. Early booking is recommended!

Ancient Egyptian archaeology - people and places 1B

Day: Wednesday 13/01/16 – 16/03/16
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

This course builds on topics covered in Ancient Egyptian archaeology - people and places 1A but can be taken independently. It focuses on the material culture associated with specific people or groups of people in the past, examining the archaeological traces left behind by diverse communities incorporating various social levels, including workers' villages, garrisons and the remains of New Kingdom palace sites.

Ancient Egyptian texts 1B

Day: Thursday 14/01/16 – 17/03/16
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

Following on from Ancient Egyptian texts 1A, this course continues to teach you how to read ancient Egyptian hieroglyphs. It can be taken by those wishing to brush up rusty hieroglyphic reading skills, but is not suitable for complete beginners. We continue to learn about Middle Egyptian grammar, reading further funerary texts but turning our attention also to royal inscriptions. Again, we contextualise the texts we are reading against the backdrop of ancient Egyptian culture.

Queen Hatshepsut: the life and times of a female pharaoh

Day: Saturday 23/01/16
Time: 10.00 – 16.00

Queen Hatshepsut was one of ancient Egypt's greatest pharaohs, but only one of a handful of female rulers. This day school reviews the evidence of her rise to power, her courtiers, her architectural and religious programme, and her preparations for the afterlife. Touching upon 18th Dynasty objects from museum collections in Glasgow, we will explore aspects of life in Egypt's Golden Age.

Cobra and vulture: power and authority in ancient Egypt

Day: Saturday 13/02/16
Time: 10.00 – 16.00

The day aims to penetrate the façade of Ancient Egyptian pyramids, temples and tombs to understand the political and religious messages they contain, as well as the individual and collective decisions they embody, by analysing four key rulers from Egyptian history: Khufu, Senwosret III, Amunhotep III and Seti I.

Day event

Sacred animals in ancient Egypt

Day: Saturday 18/06/16
Time: 10.00 – 16.00

The ancient Egyptians are popularly known as animal lovers, but what evidence survives for the worship of gods in animal form? Did the Egyptians have pets? And why did the Egyptians mummify millions of specimens of countless species? Tying in with a major exhibition visiting Glasgow in 2016, this day school goes in search of the truths behind the myths.

Tutors: Campbell Price BA MA PhD
Credits: 0 Cost: £30.00
Course code: 9237

Introduction to the Ancient Near East

Day: Wednesday 15/06/16 – 17/08/16
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

The Ancient Near East, stretching from ancient Anatolia in the north and Mesopotamia in the south, was a dynamic patchwork of neighbouring cities and empires, often at odds, but also trading goods and ideas with one another. Drawing on archaeology, religion and art, this course introduces students to the cultural, social and historical landscapes of the Ancient Near East (from c. 7,000 – c. 600 BC), charting the rise and fall of its rich and turbulent powers.

Archaeology and the Material World —

The Vikings in Europe and beyond

Day: Monday 28/09/15 – 30/11/15
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

Using historical and archaeological evidence, this course follows the Vikings' movements throughout Europe, the Baltic and Middle East and across the North Atlantic. Students will examine written sources, artefacts and archaeological sites to better understand how people lived and died during the Viking Age, as well as the legacy of the Vikings.

Tutors: Caroline Paterson

The archaeology of hunter gatherers: the Palaeolithic and Mesolithic of Northern Britain

Day: Wednesday 30/09/15 – 02/12/15
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

This course uses archaeological, environmental and ethnographic evidence and object-handling sessions to explore hunter gatherers' patterns of life, the customs marking their deaths, and their changing landscape of melting ice-sheets, tsunamis and other ecological events. The focus is Northern Britain, but we will draw upon similar evidence from north-west Europe, covering the period from the Palaeolithic (13,600-9,600 BCE) to the Mesolithic (9,600-3,600 BCE).

Tutors: Dene Wright MA MLitt PhD
Credits: 10 Cost: £115.00
Course code: 8555

The archaeology of World War One

Day: Thursday 01/10/15 – 03/12/15
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

Using modern archaeological research, this course explores in detail why and, particularly, how the First World War was fought. Key topics will include the archaeology of: trench warfare, the home front, the war at sea, the war in the Imperial colonies, and the war in the air.

Tutors: Terence Christian BA MLitt PhD
Credits: 10 Cost: £115.00
Course code: 6727

Understanding archaeology

Day: Wednesday 13/01/16 – 16/03/16
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

How does modern life influence the study of the past? This course introduces the theory, practice and responsibilities of the archaeological exploration of the past in the present day. Using real life examples as case studies, we will explore the latest issues and controversies affecting archaeologists today.

Tutors: Amanda Charland BA MLitt PhD
Credits: 10 Cost: £115.00

Day event

The archaeology of World War Two

Day: Thursday 14/01/16 – 17/03/16
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

Complementary to but separate from 'The archaeology of World War One', this course uses recent archaeological research to examine the origins, prosecution, and consequences of the Second World War. Topics to be examined include the archaeology of: the war in Europe and the Mediterranean, the war in the Pacific, the war at sea and in the air, the home front, the Holocaust/war crimes, and post-war geopolitics.

Tutors: Terence Christian BA MLitt PhD
Credits: 10 Cost: £115.00
Course code: 6443

Scottish brochs and the Roman Empire

Day: Tuesday 16/02/16 – 15/03/16
Time: 14.00 – 16.00

Scottish brochs are small but massive drystone towers often containing undisturbed evidence of both local events, and those happening further away. A few brochs, particularly in the south, witnessed the three Roman invasions of Scotland. Their archaeology provides a unique insight into the nature of the impact of the Roman Imperial Army on local Iron Age tribesmen. Focusing particularly on Dun Ardreck on Skye and Leckie in Stirlingshire we will explore the impact Roman influence had on native culture.

Tutors: Euan MacKie MA PhD
Credits: 0 Cost: £57.50
Course code: 7326

Landscape and religion in the Mediterranean

Day: Saturday 23/04/16
Time: 10.00 – 16.00

Religious experience has always been deeply embedded in particular places and landscapes. People see natural features such as groves, springs, hills and islands as sacred, thus they become the focus of rituals, dedications and sacrifices, often with sensory experiences specific to the place. We explore this impact of landscape on ritual, from prehistoric cave sanctuaries to the Islamic Hajj route.

Tutors: Michael Given BA PhD
Credits: 0 Cost: £30.00
Course code: 6719

The history and archaeology of medieval castles

Day: Wednesday 04/05/16 – 01/06/16
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

This course offers an introduction to the history and archaeology of medieval castles. Drawing on examples from Scotland, England, Wales, Ireland, and the Holy Land, we will look at the development of different castle styles and the different roles that castles played during the middle ages.

Tutors: Amanda Charland BA MLitt PhD
Credits: 0 Cost: £57.50
Course code: 2416

Day event

Fact or fiction? Archaeology in popular culture

Day: Saturday 25/06/16
Time: 10.00 – 16.00

Is archaeology accurately portrayed on television? Did aliens build the pyramids? Is Game of Thrones a realistic example of medieval life? Was Tutankhamun's tomb cursed? This course offers a critical evaluation of popular archaeology. Drawing on examples from fictional and factual television programmes, literature, as well as famous archaeological examples, we will learn how to recognise the perils of (often misleading) popular archaeology.

Tutors: Amanda Charland
HBA, MLitt, PhD
Credits: 0 Cost: £30.00
Course code: 7558

More Reading in Ancient Egyptian 2

Day: Thursdays 14/01/2016-17/03/2016
Time: 14.00-16.00
Tutors: William Manley BA, PhD
Cost: £115.00

Later Antiquity and the Medieval World —

Empires of faith: The forging of Europe 800-1100

Day: ~~Tuesday 29/09/15 – 15/03/16~~

Time: ~~19.00 – 21.00~~

Beginning with Charlemagne and his world, with its immense power and deep faith, acts of loyalty and treachery, spectacular culture and terrifying violence, we will investigate the events and processes which led to the rise of empires that forged Western Europe: Carolingian, Ottonian, and West Saxon. Drawing on a rich and varied collection of written sources, we will seek to challenge some of the misconceptions of this pivotal period in the making of European identity.

Tutors: Patrick J F Parsons MA PGCE

Credits: 20 Cost: £230.00

Course code: 6836

Taking the Cross: The Crusades 1095 – 1216

Day: ~~Tuesday 29/09/15 – 15/03/16~~

Time: ~~11.00 – 13.00~~

What social, cultural and religious influences led men and women to take the cross? The history of the Crusades is often obscured by modern prejudices and misconceptions; drawing on a variety of written evidence and the latest research, you will reappraise and challenge such misconceptions to gain a deeper understanding of this fascinating period. We will investigate crusading from the 'inside', the origins and evolution of the crusading movement, who the crusaders were, the responses to crusading, and the extension of crusading beyond the Holy Land.

Tutors: Patrick J F Parsons MA PGCE

Credits: 20 Cost: £230.00

Course code: 5339

The Greek and Roman World —

Classical Greek Civilisation 1B

Day: Monday 28/09/15 – 14/03/16

Time: 19.00 – 21.00

Independent of but a partner to Classical Greek Civilisation 1A, this course comprehensively introduces the cultural world of ancient Greece, exploring history, literature, philosophy as well as art and archaeology. It has two principal themes: 'War and Peace' and 'Gods and Men' in classical Athens. It spans topics from the Trojan War myths, Greek tragic theatre, ancient religion, and some of the earliest surviving philosophical texts. All texts are read in translation.

Tutors: Marie Martin MA PhD

Credits: 20 Cost: £230.00

Course code: 4926

Continuing Latin

Day: Tuesday 29/09/15 – 15/03/16

Time: 19.00 – 21.00

This course allows students with basic Latin knowledge to extend their knowledge of the grammar of the language and experience of reading Latin passages. The class will progress from reading passages written for language tuition, on to simplified versions of real Latin texts.

Tutors: Fraser Dallachy MA MPhil PhD

Credits: 20 Cost: £230.00

Course code: 1823

Introduction to Latin

Day: Tuesday 29/09/15 – 15/03/16

Time: 14.00 – 16.00

This course is designed for total beginners in Latin and will introduce the main features of the Latin language over the session. An ability to read and understand Latin is the principal aim, but an understanding of the grammar and structure will be an important adjunct. The course book is GDA Sharpley, Teach Yourself Beginner's Latin (3rd edition 2003) and additional material will be provided where appropriate.

Tutors: Fraser Dallachy MA MPhil PhD

Credits: 20 Cost: £230.00

Day event

Alexander the Great: his life and legacy

Day: Saturday 14/05/16

Time: 10.00 – 16.00

Alexander the Great is one of the most historically influential and mythologised people of all time. Before the age of 30 he had conquered most of the known world. Within a decade of his death, a vast number of literary works about him were in circulation, some proclaiming him a monster, others a god. This course explores the reality and the myths of a man who became a legend.

Highlands to Islands, Forth to Clyde:
Exploring Scotland's Archaeological and Historical Past - in association with The Hunterian Museum's Cradle of Scotland
Exhibition

Day Saturday, 5 December 2015

Time 10.00 - 17.00

Partnering with the Hunterian Museum's "Cradle of Scotland" exhibition, this day event takes a longitudinal approach to Scotland's archaeological past. Six experts in their respective fields will divide Scotland's 13,000+ year history into distinct periods. These will include: pre-history, the Roman and Post-Roman world, the Picts and Early Medieval Scotland, the Norse, the medieval world, and Scotland's industrial rise. Participants will also have the opportunity to visit the "Cradle of Scotland" exhibition with the lecturers, exploring the sites and artefacts up close with the experts at their disposal. Make it a fun, educational Saturday for the whole family with open activities for children offered twice during the day. Early booking is highly recommended!

Gods, games and gladiators

Day: Tuesday 03/11/15 – 01/12/15

Time: 10.00 – 12.00

Using vibrant images, we study the importance of the Greek Olympian gods within the tradition of the Pan Hellenic games of the ancient Olympiad, focusing on the festivals themselves and the archaeology of the sites. We'll explore the athletes as elite individuals and their emergence as a professional group. We'll also study the beginnings of Roman funeral games and the progression towards the gladiatorial contests that became famous in amphitheatres such as the Colosseum.

Tutors: Karen Ann Criggie MA

Credits: 0 Cost: £57.50

Course code: 7483

Ancient Greek for beginners

Day: Monday 28/09/15 – 14/03/16

Time: 14.00 – 16.00

Some of the greatest works of literature, philosophy and science were composed in ancient Greek. It is a challenging language, but full of wonders that are alive in our own modern English. This course assumes no pre-existing knowledge and introduces students to the Greek (Attic) language by means of a series of grammar lessons accompanied by readings of simplified texts appropriate to their level of progress.

Tutors: Eric Gowling MA PhD

Credits: 20 Cost: £230.00

Cradle of Scotland 3 September 2015 – 3 January 2016 Hunterian Art Gallery Admission free

Cradle of Scotland is a major new collaborative exhibition which reveals the dramatic discoveries made by the University of Glasgow's Strathearn Environs and Royal Forteviot (SERF) project.

The project, which focuses on the historic Forteviot landscape in Perthshire, has resulted in a number of remarkable archaeological finds. Cradle of Scotland combines these original artefacts with replicas and visualisations, creating a stunning exhibition that explores the archaeological history of Scotland.

Cradle of Scotland also showcases the latest advances, technologies and discoveries in Scottish archaeology. Visitors will learn about the modern archaeological process in Scotland, and about the application of latest investigative and reconstructive methods.

The exhibition is jointly curated by The Hunterian and Perth Museum and Art Gallery, where it will go in Spring 2016. In Glasgow, it will be supported by a range of exciting events hosted by The Hunterian and the Centre for Open Studies. Details will be posted on our websites.

The Certificate in Field Archaeology

This is a two-year programme for which students receive 120 credits at Level 1

The programme consists of three 20-credit courses each year. Students will be required to enrol and pay for all three courses at the start of the academic year. In 2015-16 we are running the second year of the programme. In order to take the Year 2 courses, students should have completed the three courses of Year 1 of the programme.

The overall aim of the programme is to introduce students to the fundamentals of archaeological field survey and British, especially Scottish, archaeology.

The courses combine lectures with essay and project writing, visits to museums and archaeological sites, hands-on laboratory classes, computer-based exercises and practical field experience, by means of which students will be introduced to subjects ranging from aerial photography to archaeo-zoology, with a particular focus on field survey techniques.

Tutors for the programme are drawn predominantly from amongst practising archaeologists, with further contributions from members of staff of the University of Glasgow and other qualified professionals. Specific techniques and period studies throughout the programme are taught by recognised specialists in the relevant fields.

If you are interested in enrolling on the programme in 2016-17, or for any enquiries about the Certificate in Field Archaeology, please get in touch with Alan Leslie: alan.leslie@glasgow.ac.uk

Year 2 consists of:

Post-Roman and medieval archaeology of Scotland

Day: Tuesday 06/10/15-08/12/15
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

The course introduces students to the historical archaeology of Scotland, from the end of the Roman occupation to the present day. It includes both a chronological framework and insights into the benefits and complexities an archaeological perspective provides to periods with wildly differing levels and qualities of surviving testimonies and records.

Note: Field trips will take place on Saturdays: dates TBC

Cost: £245.00
Course code: 5638

Theory and practice of field archaeology 2

Day: Tuesday 12/01/16 – 15/03/16
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

The course introduces students to more advanced methodological approaches, techniques and theoretical concepts, reflecting recent trends in the subject. These include landscape archaeology, phenomenology and psychogeography, the archaeology of buildings, battlefield archaeology, 'public' archaeology, ethics in archaeology and the growing importance of Geographical Information Systems in archaeological research and management.

Note: An additional practical class and fieldwork session will be scheduled: date TBC

Cost: £245.00
Course code: 4510

Field school

Day: Mon – Fri July 2016: dates TBC
Time: N/A

The course introduces students to the practice of standing building recording, with specific reference to techniques not requiring sophisticated and expensive surveying equipment. Basic principles covered include how to establish a baseline for survey, measurement techniques, how to interpret building modifications and repairs, and how to archaeologically phase a standing structure.

Cost: £245.00
Course code: 4107

Day: Monday 28/09/15 – 14/03/16
Time: 13.00 – 15.30

Art therapy (now known as art psychotherapy) is a psychological therapy that uses art materials for self-expression and reflection in the presence of a trained art psychotherapist. It is a psychological treatment that helps someone to express and explore thoughts and feelings that they might otherwise struggle to put into words. It is another way of understanding and processing emotional problems. Our course will aim to offer you direct experience of using creativity and art-making for greater awareness of the role and function of an art psychotherapist; to provide a firm foundation for the possible progression onto a postgraduate MSc in art psychotherapy. It does not offer professional qualifications to practise art psychotherapy nor does it provide personal therapy. A key part of our course is to give you a 'hands on' experience by making art work in a group setting, engaging in a range of creative workshops and learning through case presentations and group discussions.

From Giotto to Gauguin: European painting 1300-1900

Day: Wednesday 30/09/15 – 16/03/16

Time: 10.00 – 12.00

This course provides a broad overview of the history of painting in Western Europe. It offers an introduction to critical art appreciation and, by tracing major developments over 600 years, provides a comprehensive foundation for the study of European painting from the time of Giotto, through the Renaissance and Baroque periods to the achievements of the Impressionists and Post-Impressionists in the late nineteenth century. The development of art in Britain will also be discussed. Guided visits to local art collections will be included in the course.

The Italian Renaissance courts

Day: Tuesday 12/01/16 – 15/03/16

Time: 10.30 – 12.30

The artistic achievements of Florence, admired and envied, soon spread rapidly throughout the Italian peninsula. These new developments and the spirit that animated them were taken up and used for their own ends by the princely and ducal courts of Milan, Naples, Mantua, Urbino and Ferrara. They were also taken up by the papacy in Rome and the republican oligarchies of Venice, Lucca, Rimini, Pisa etc. The inventive variety that grew from this cross-fertilization will be studied against the social and political background of the period.

Dutch 17th century painting

Day: Thursday 14/01/16 – 17/03/16
Time: 10.00 – 12.00

The 17th century is regarded as the golden age of Dutch painting. The Dutch succeeded in establishing a republic, independent of Hapsburg rule. Its economy boomed and the art market flourished. New categories of painting developed, celebrating Dutch pride and achievement and reflecting the ideas and concerns of contemporary society. The artists who produced them were as varied in styles as the subjects they painted. This course will assess the remarkable and influential contribution to European painting made by masters such as Rembrandt, Hals, Vermeer, Ruisdael and others, in the historical context of the new Dutch Republic.

The Two World Wars: 1914-18 and 1939-45 compared

Day: Saturday 07/05/16

Time: 10.00 – 16.00

The centenary of the First World War continues to attract great interest. We take a broad over-view of the two great wars, discussing what they had in common, and how far they were different. To what extent did the events and outcome of the First World War influence the onset and the character of the Second World War? The four sessions, taught by experts, will cover the strategy and conduct of the fighting in different theatres of operations, and look at underlying political and social developments at home.

War Reformation and Union: Scotland 1500–1715

Day: Wednesday 30/09/15 – 16/03/16

Time: 10.00 – 12.00

The sixteenth and seventeenth centuries were two of the most turbulent and momentous in the history of Scotland. The impact of the religious disruption of the Reformation, conflict with the 'auld enemy', civil wars and relations with Ireland is still evident. Increasingly close contacts between Scotland and England, notably through the Union of the Crowns and the later Union of the Parliaments, created modern Britain and made the Scots 'British'. The major focus will be on the political, religious and military processes which transformed Scotland from an independent European power in 1500 to a part of a 'Greater Britain' in 1707 – a process which was never inevitable.

Scotland 1567-1707

Day: Thursday 01/10/15 – 03/12/15

Time: 19.30 – 21.30

Seventeenth century Scotland was particularly turbulent: an absentee monarch provoked a civil war that resulted in the establishment of a Covenanted theocracy, prompting invasion and incorporation into the republic of the English Commonwealth. The restoration of the Stuarts was followed by the accession of William of Orange and Jacobitism and culminated with parliamentary Union in 1707. We will discuss these and other main features of Scottish history during this period.

The sack 'em up men: Grave robbers and surgeons in Glasgow

Day: Saturday 30/07/16

Time: 10.00 – 16.00

Before the Anatomy Act of 1832, the medical schools of Glasgow and elsewhere relied on stolen corpses for teaching and research. This class explores the victims, the robbers and the surgeons involved in this grisly trade, and looks at how ordinary people tried to protect the recently deceased. We'll also look at how communities tried to secure burial grounds, with effects that are still visible today.

German Stage 4

Day: Thursday 01/10/15 – 17/03/16Time: 19.15 – 21.15

Dieser Kurs, in dem wir uns praktisch nur auf Deutsch verständigen wollen, bietet sich für Lerner an, die German Stage 3 absolviert oder ein vergleichbares Niveau erreicht haben. Der Schwerpunkt liegt im freien Sprechen, wozu viele Stimuli sowie Diskussionen und Partnerarbeit animieren sollen. Literarische Kurzformen, Liedtexte, Lyrik, Hörspiel, Film und Fernsehausschnitte sollen bei den Kursteilnehmern auch Lese- und Hörverstehen schärfen. Grammatik wird nach Wunsch behandelt und dem Bedarf der jeweiligen Teilnehmergruppe angepasst. Ein Kursbuch ist nicht erforderlich, die Materialien werden vom Tutor zusammengestellt. 'Brauchbare' Wörterbücher sind im Unterricht aber mehr als gern gesehen. Das Schriftliche hat in dieser Stufe ebenfalls eine ganz zentrale Rolle, steht und fällt aber ganz erheblich mit der Schreibbereitschaft der Teilnehmer während der 20 Kurswochen.

Day: Saturday 06/02/16
Time: 10.00 – 16.00

With the success in the recent years of films such The Exotic Marigold Hotel (2011) and Quartet (2012), so-called 'Silver Cinema' has become big business. Targeted at mature audiences, these films aim to capitalise upon the often-neglected 'grey pound'. But is the use of such language inherently patronising? Or are such films important works in an industry that is often so obsessed with eternal youth? What do these films say about our attitudes towards the elderly?

The flower is engendered 1

Day: Wednesday 30/03/16 – 01/06/16
Time: 13.00 – 15.00

Based on The Prologue To The Canterbury Tales and The Franklin's Tale, by Geoffrey Chaucer, this Course sees the work as uniquely modern and a source of the novel in the 20th/21st century. It further hears the Franklin argument for equality in marriage and life for men and women; the wittiest and most joyous of writings, it is also the most thought-changing work before Shakespeare, and we'll enjoy it all for those two reasons.

Introduction to philosophy: reason and argument

Day: Monday 28/09/15 – 14/03/16
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

This course will concentrate on the peculiar nature of philosophical problems. It will look at how we recognise and construct 'sound' arguments in dealing with these problems, and there will be a consideration of various reasoning procedures that are applied to the arguments of modern social and political thought.

Tutors: Paul Harkin MA MPhil PhD

~~Plato's Symposium~~

~~Day:~~ Monday 28/09/15 – 30/11/15
~~Time:~~ 10.00 – 12.00

~~The Symposium is one of Plato's most famous and accessible works. Written in the 4th century BCE, it is set at a dinner party attended by a number of prominent ancient Athenians, including the philosopher Socrates. Whilst enjoying several glasses of wine, the guests take it in turn to speak of love. Their discussions are also used as a vehicle for explaining some of Plato's wider philosophical ideas and the book has had a significant influence on later thinkers. Students will gain a fuller insight into the foundations of the western philosophical tradition and other works of Plato.~~

Introduction to philosophy of mind

Day: Tuesday 29/09/15 – 15/03/16
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

Mind has become an increasingly important area of modern philosophy. This course introduces most of the important readings on mind and gives a conceptual understanding of how the area works with other areas of philosophy. All the main concepts are introduced and examined critically. Issues of representation, mental phenomena, and their relationships of structure and content of consciousness are examined. The course is self-standing, but also serves as a course that prepares students for many other areas of study at levels 1 and 2 in the credit-bearing programme.

Philosophy in technicolour

Day: Wednesday 30/09/15 – 02/12/15
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

This course introduces a variety of philosophical issues as explored in works of film and TV alongside a discussion of some of the central themes in the Philosophy of Art. We will address questions like “what is art?” and “are the origins of art biological or cultural?” We will look at the work of Alfred Hitchcock, Woody Allen, Quentin Tarantino, Larry David, Monty Python, and David Simon as well as the philosophy of many great thinkers, including: Socrates, Plato, Thomas Hobbes, John Locke, David Hume, Rousseau, Descartes, Kant, and John Stuart Mill.

Philosophical ethics of Socrates, Plato and Aristotle

Day: Wednesday 30/09/15 – 16/03/16
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

This course will examine Greek ethics and other basic areas of ancient philosophy. At the centre will be Plato's Republic and Aristotle's Nicomachean Ethics. We will also discuss these works in the context of the pre-Socratic philosophers and shed light onto Plato's and Aristotle's influence on later Hellenistic philosophies by the Stoics and the Epicureans. It is a stand-alone course that can be taken as a foundation course for many other areas of study.

Philosophy and emotion

Day: Thursday 01/10/15 – 17/03/16
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

What are emotions? Are they simply feelings, blind irrational forces? Or do they have a deeper connection with human understanding? The first part of this course explores theories about what emotions are, from antiquity to the present day, including those of Aristotle, William James, Freud, Darwin and others. In the second part we ask why emotions matter to us; is it because of how they feel, the goals they help us achieve, or something else? We consider the connection between emotion and moral value, and the question of our responsibility for our emotions.

Philosophy and music

Day: Thursday 01/10/15 – 03/12/15
Time: 14.00 – 16.00

Why does music matter to us? Since music has no words, how can it have meaning? Can music tell stories or express emotions? Should we judge rock or jazz music by different standards to those we use when appreciating 'classical' music? What does it mean to say that music is sentimental or profound? This course looks at some of the recent debates in contemporary philosophy of music.

D'oh! The Simpsons introduce philosophy

Day: Saturday 24/10/15
Time: 10.00 – 16.00

The Simpsons is one of the modern world's greatest cultural artefacts partly because it is so full of philosophy. Aristotle, Kant, Marx, Camus, and many other great thinkers' ideas are represented in what is arguably the purest of philosophical forms: the comic cartoon. This day-school will explore some of philosophy's most inspiring ideas as presented in Matt Groening's monument to the absurdities of human existence.

Day event

Is science compatible with religion?

Day: Saturday 21/11/15
Time: 10.00 – 16.00

The theory of evolution is inconsistent with the literal account of human origins given in Genesis and other religious works. Other scientific theories are inconsistent with miracles, the efficacy of prayer, and the existence of supernatural beings that intervene in the natural order. But does this mean that religious belief in general is incompatible with a scientific worldview? This day school will address this question by examining different conceptions of science and religion to determine whether any are consistent.

Twentieth-century philosophy

Day: Monday 11/01/16 – 14/03/16
Time: 18.00 – 20.00

The Twentieth-Century witnessed some of western philosophy's greatest figures: Bertrand Russell, G. E. Moore, Ludwig Wittgenstein, Rudolf Carnap, Jean-Paul Sartre, Willard Van Orman Quine, Thomas Khun, and Michel Foucault. This course explores the ideas of these and many other mighty thinkers by charting the progress of philosophy during the better part of the last hundred years. This course provides an excellent grounding in the recent history of the issues that form the cutting-edge of philosophy today.

Beyond belief

Day: Tuesday 12/01/16 – 15/03/16
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

With the emergence of New Atheism philosophers attempted to bring new techniques to bear on traditional problems regarding religion and religious belief. In this class we will explain what philosophical examination of religion is, address the matter of argumentation about God's existence and take up the issue of whether or not belief in God needs to rest on rational argument.

Life, the universe and everything! An introduction to philosophy

Day: Wednesday 13/01/16 – 16/03/16
Time: 14.00 – 16.00

What is philosophy? What is it to philosophise? What do philosophers do? This course will answer these questions by charting the history of modern philosophy and covering metaphysics (the study of the nature of reality), epistemology (the study of knowledge and justified belief), value theory (the study of ethical, political, religious and aesthetic value), and logic. The work of key figures from the history of philosophy will be discussed, including Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, Hume, Kant, Mill, and Russell.

Famous philosophers: Descartes

Day: Saturday 06/02/16
Time: 10:00 – 13:00

Descartes is often dubbed the father of modern philosophy. His separation of mind and body, and insistence on logic as a route to knowledge, was at the heart of a revolution that still reverberates, shaping not only modern philosophy but also the arts, religion, and politics. We can't fully appreciate ancient or medieval thought without looking at them through Descartes' (often distorting) lens. Anyone interested in any aspect of western philosophy or theology will find this introduction to Descartes invaluable.

Science fiction and philosophy

Day: Saturday 30/01/16
Time: 10:00 – 16:00

Against the backdrop of science fiction, this day school will teach the application of the techniques of analytic philosophy to examine life, the universe, and everything. Ideas common in science fiction which also form the basis for famous philosophical thought experiments will be examined, including: (1) Time Travel – if I travel back in time and kill my grandfather what happens? Is this even possible? What does considering these questions tell us about the nature of reality? (2) Personal Identity: If I step into a Star Trek type teleporter, but it malfunctions and creates two copies of me while destroying the original, which copy is me? Neither? Both? What does considering such cases tell us about what is required for a person to persist (i.e. remain the same person) through time? (3) The Matrix – what justification do we have for believing that the world is as it appears? Can you know that you are not in the Matrix, or a brain in a jar being supplied experiences by electrodes, or a disembodied mind being deceived by a malevolent demon? What does considering these questions tell us about the nature of knowledge, perception, and our relationship with the world?

Famous philosophers: Hume

Day: Saturday 13/02/16
Time: 10:00 – 13:00

Hume argued that our most basic ways of thinking about ourselves and the world – ways of thinking shared by all people in all cultures at all times – are not based on experience or reason but are held in place simply by custom and habit. His work is still enormously influential. He is not just the most important Scottish philosopher, he may well be the most important philosopher full stop! Come and find out why he is still treated the world over as one of the most important thinkers that has ever lived.

Half-day event

Famous philosophers: Kant

---

Day: Saturday 20/02/16
Time: 10:00 – 13:00

Kant transformed philosophy. More than any other philosopher he attempted to reconcile human freedom with the growth of scientific understanding and to find a place for freedom, reason and aesthetic pleasure in a mechanistic world. Autonomy, moral thought and the role of emotion; whether we can know the world as it is – all these are issues to which Kant made key contributions. Even today, a grasp of Kant's arguments remains essential for anyone interested in these topics.

~~A brief introduction to reasoning and argument~~

~~Day: Wed 24/02/2016 – 02/03/2016~~
~~Time: 13.00 – 16.00~~

~~This course will use a practical and interactive approach to explore how, through applying the tools of philosophy, you can evaluate the 'soundness' of arguments and present sound arguments. It is important to be alert to false arguments and to others' attempts to persuade you through appealing to your emotions. This course will increase your alertness to these situations through analysing real-life instances, gleaned from newspapers, TV and radio.~~

Half-day event

~~Famous philosophers: Hegel~~

~~Day: Saturday 27/02/16~~
~~Time: 10.00 – 13.00~~

~~Hegel treats the community of persons as more fundamental than individual persons. He stresses that human life is essentially social and historical – that to be an individual person is to take up a series of socially instituted roles (husband, father, friend, plumber, teacher, footballer...). Hegel's anti-individualism is the most potent and plausible alternative to the individualism that is at the heart of contemporary western culture. He has an exciting grand vision of reality as essentially rational, knowable and meaningful.~~

~~Buddhism in more detail~~

~~Day: Saturday 12/03/16~~
~~Time: 10.00 – 16.00~~

~~This course is for those who have a basic understanding of Buddhism but would like to know more. It offers a mix of Buddhist philosophy and an outline of Buddhist practice as well as a look at the relationships to western philosophy. There are two tutors each with different expertise in Buddhism from which to draw.~~

~~Business ethics~~

~~Day: Mon (Online) 28/03/16 – 30/05/16~~
~~Time: N/A~~

~~Are there any ethics in business, or is the expression 'Business Ethics' an oxymoron or a paradox? How can you create and organise a business on the basis of a solid ethical and moral foundation? Particular emphasis is given to the study of the practical application of ethical theory through concrete business study cases.~~

~~Women philosophers~~

~~Day: Tuesday 29/03/16 – 31/05/16~~
~~Time: 13.00 – 15.00~~

~~In this course we'll explore the thought of six key female philosophers covering topics such as human moral agency, race relations, and existentialism. Text book philosophy is often written as if there are no female philosophers to speak of. These insightful philosophers show the poverty of this approach and offer us a collection of voices from different female perspectives. Starting with Mary Wollstonecraft, we'll move onto later philosophers such as Elizabeth Anscombe and Angela Davis – thinkers whose philosophy has variously shaped the discipline and brought them to the coal face of contemporary political discourse.~~

~~Scottish philosophy~~

~~Day: Wednesday 30/03/16 – 01/06/16~~
~~Time: 19.00 – 21.00~~

~~Scottish philosophy covers a very wide range of thought, and Scottish philosophers such as Francis Hutcheson, Thomas Reid, Adam Smith and David Hume have contributed much to the wider western tradition of philosophy and to intellectual activities the world over. This course examines the key concepts and legacy of these Scottish philosophers, most of whom worked at the University of Glasgow.~~

Wittgenstein

~~Day: Wednesday 30/03/16 – 01/06/16~~

~~Time: 14.00 – 16.00~~

~~Wittgenstein argues that there can be no such thing as a theory or picture of the world which shows what different kinds of things there ultimately are and how they fit together. If we look for such a theory or picture in philosophy, religion or science, we are like Pooh Bear and Christopher Robin looking for the East Pole. Wittgenstein is sometimes considered the most radical and important of modern philosophers: he doesn't contribute another theory or picture to compete with those we already have – he explains (exactly) why no such theory or picture is even possible.~~

Famous philosophers: Schopenhauer

Day: Saturday 09/04/16

Time: 10.00 – 13.00

Without Schopenhauer there would have been no Wagner or Nietzsche, and Schopenhauer also reaches 'Buddhist' conclusions without knowing much about Buddhism.

For Schopenhauer life is a pointless work-filled drudge where unsatisfied cravings continue until we cease to exist, and return to a state where there is no God or judgement on our behaviour. If life were any better then we'd die of boredom.

This is the worst of all possible worlds but there is a way to overcome the pointlessness of existence. Come and find out how!

It's alive! The philosophy of Artificial Intelligence

Day: Saturday 23/04/16

Time: 10.00 – 16.00

Can machines be conscious? If not, why not? If machines can be conscious, how can they, and what obstacles need to be overcome until we can build some? If conscious machines are ever built will this make human beings obsolete? This course will address these questions and more in the light of the very latest research in the philosophy of mind and cognitive science.

Famous philosophers: Nietzsche

Day: Saturday 30/04/16

Time: 10.00 – 13.00

Nietzsche's influence today remains enormous and extends far beyond the confines of philosophy. But what did he believe? In what sense was he a philosopher? Was he the first post-modernist? We will explore some key aspects of Nietzsche's thought; his perspectivism, his ideas about tragedy, music and culture, the nature of value, the problem of modernity and his ideal of how we should try to live.

God, faith, science and reason: an introduction to the philosophy of religion

Day: Saturday 14/05/16

Time: 10.00 – 16.00

Is there a God? How do we answer that question? Can we? Should a rational person follow a religion and also believe in the results of natural science? What is a religion, anyway? This course will provide answers to these and related questions by examining some of the classic arguments discussed in the philosophy of religion by great historical thinkers such as Plato, Leibniz and Hume, as well as more contemporary figures such as Alvin Plantinga.

Famous philosophers: Bertrand Russell

Day: Saturday 21/05/16

Time: 10.00 – 13.00

Bertrand Russell (1872-1970) was perhaps one of the most prolific and influential of British philosophers in the twentieth century. In this course we will study three particular aspects of his work: his early critique of Neo-Hegelianism in Logic, Language and Mathematics, his attempt at Educational Reform and his engagement and support to the Nuclear Disarmament and the Peace Movement against the Vietnam War.

~~The night sky~~

~~Day: Monday 28/09/15 — 26/10/15~~

~~Time: 19.30 — 21.30~~

~~A first look at the beauties of the night sky: constellations, Moon and planets, comets and meteors. We will look at the layout of the solar system as revealed by the regularly changing night sky, and consider everyday phenomena with cosmic explanations: tides and seasons. Learn to recognise the constellations and spot the interesting objects among them.~~

~~The Universe: ancient and modern~~

~~Day: Wednesday 30/09/15 — 28/10/15~~

~~Time: 14.00 — 16.00~~

~~The night sky reveals the universe beyond Earth. Since ancient times people have scrutinised it for answers to fundamental questions. We shall look at ancient and modern ideas of the layout and origins of the cosmos, in the process learning about the workings and beauties of the night sky.~~

~~Sun and solar system~~

~~Day: Wednesday 30/09/15 — 16/03/16~~

~~Time: 19.30 — 21.30~~

~~People have studied the sky for thousands of years; now we explore the solar system with spacecraft. We will draw on ancient and modern discoveries to learn in detail about the sun, planets, moons and other solar system bodies, their appearance and physical nature. There will be a concluding look at other solar systems. The companion course, Stars and the Universe, will be offered in session 2016-17; the two courses together provide a survey of modern astronomy.~~

~~A sun day~~

~~Day: Saturday 24/10/15~~

~~Time: 10.00 – 16.00~~

~~Only one star can be studied in detail: our own Sun. Subjected as never before to scrutiny from a huge range of telescopes and detectors, the Sun's outer layers display complex, detailed, dynamic phenomena in which magnetic fields play a key role. Understanding and predicting these is increasingly important for many technologies here on Earth. We will take a close look at the Sun, its various impacts on Earth and how to study it yourself using mass market telescopes.~~

Science fiction in the sky

Day: Tuesday 03/11/15 – 01/12/15

Time: 19.30 – 21.30

We will look at the science in each of a few science fiction short stories, taking them as starting points for astronomy or physics topics: supernovae, solar flares, binary star systems, dark matter, time travel, extraterrestrial life. Did the authors get the science right? And can we see any of this for ourselves in the sky?

Day: Monday 11/01/16 – 08/02/16

Time: 19.30 – 21.30

We take a look at the nature of the planets, stars and galaxies as revealed by space exploration, huge telescopes and satellite experiments. What sorts of worlds lie beyond Earth? Why do the stars keep shining – and why are some red and some blue? How old is the Universe? This course and 'The Night Sky' work as stand-alone courses, but both together provide a broad introduction to astronomy.

Biology —*Mountain and upland ecology*Day: Tuesday 29/09/15 — 01/12/15Time: 19.00 — 21.00

Mountains have captivated people through song, poetry and painting for centuries. The people who lived and worked in these extraordinary places have long known of their intriguing flora and fauna, however, it is only relatively recently that studies have shed light on these important upland ecosystems. This course provides an introduction to mountain, and specifically upland ecology, in the context of Scottish and Irish landscapes for keen mountain enthusiasts and hillwalkers. It will involve the examination of important and rare upland habitats and species, as well as a look at how humans have shaped these landscapes, and the management conflicts and climate change that threaten their very existence.

Tutors: Roslyn Anderson BSc MSc PhDCredits: 0 Cost: £115.00Course code: 5226Day event*Water vole ecology and survey methods*Day: Sat — Sun 10/10/2015 — 11/10/2015Time: 10.00 — 16.00

Suitable for professional ecologists and wildlife enthusiasts alike, this course focuses on a unique population of water voles which have turned their back on their normal wetland habitat in favour of urban grassland. This course will aim to explain this unusual behaviour and provide training for field sign recognition and surveying methodology on both types of water vole.

Tutors: Robyn Stewart BScCredits: 0 Cost: £60.00Course code: 6519Freshwater ecology*Day: Online 11/01/16 — 14/03/16Time: N/A

This course provides an introduction to the ecology of freshwaters, covering the main chemical, physical and biological properties of still and flowing waters. Topics will include biological interactions, identification of key flora and fauna and conservation of freshwater ecosystems. The course will be delivered online (10 weeks) with weekly topics and exercises and will then be followed by a 3-day field course at the Scottish Centre for Ecology and Natural Environment (SCENE) on Loch Lomond.

More information at gla.ac.uk/scene

The field-course will cover a range of activities including invertebrate and fish sampling and identification.

Scottish islands

Day: Tuesday 12/01/16 – 15/03/16
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

The islands of Scotland offer a fascinating wealth of topics to investigate. From the rugged and isolated island of St Kilda, to the National Nature Reserve of Rùm, once known as the 'forbidden island'. This course provides an introduction to Scotland's islands, from the rocks which shaped our landscapes and the climate which gave rise to unique habitats such as the machair, to the effects of island biogeography on plant and animal species, as well as a little history and hopefully whet the appetite for a trip to the Isle of Rùm later in the year. Students will learn to identify key flora and fauna and interpret, for example, land management issues.

Introduction to animal welfare

Day: Wednesday 17/02/16 – 16/03/16
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

Animals play many different roles in our society, from food source to research tool to companion. In this six week course, we will introduce participants to the scientific and ethical concepts underpinning animal welfare. We will explore how welfare is assessed and improved through research, illustrated by a selection of studies. Through discussion, we will develop an understanding of the different perspectives on the acceptability of animal use.

Birdsong at breakfast

Day: Saturday 30/04/16
Time: 08.00 – 11.00

One of the key skills in ornithology is to be able to identify species by their song and distinctive calls. This short course will first of all help you identify the characteristic sounds made by common species and some seasonal migrants by a walk along the River Kelvin. This will then be followed by a classroom session which will provide an introduction to the biology of bird song and practice identifying bird calls from audio recordings.

Glasgow's wildlife

Day: Thursday 05/05/16 – 02/06/16
Time: 10.00 – 13.00

Glasgow, the 'dear green place' is home to a variety of plants and animals that often go unnoticed within the City. This short course will introduce you to a number of important habitats and teach you how to identify common plants and animals. Following an introductory classroom session there will be four half day excursions to local sites of importance for nature conservation. The sites will be accessible by public transport and excursions will involve easy walking on footpaths.

Earth Science —Introducing geology*Day: Tuesday 29/09/15 – 01/12/15Time: 19.30 – 21.30

Geology is the study of planet Earth. Earthquakes, volcanoes, climate, rivers, glaciers and life have all shaped the Earth during its 4.5 billion year history. We will examine these processes with examples from around the globe and you will get to explore the intricate and beautiful world of rocks, minerals and fossils. Scotland has some of the most diverse and accessible geology in the world, and you will see many examples in our classes. By the end of the course you should have achieved the basic skills to start exploring geology yourself.

Tutors: Simon Cuthbert BSc PhDCredits: 0 Cost: £115.00Course code: 7132Evolution of the Earth, life and environments*Day: Wednesday 30/09/15 – 16/03/16Time: 19.30 – 21.30

This is one of a pair of linked courses in earth science and is a modified version of the existing full-time undergraduate Earth Science module 1Y. The other course is Introduction to the Composition and Structure of the Earth. The two courses run in alternate years and can be taken in any order. Students who complete both of these courses will be eligible to progress to level 2 Earth Science courses, subject to achieving satisfactory grades. This course covers geological surface processes, climate, economic and environmental geology, fossils, geological maps, and the geological history of Britain during the past 3,500 million years.

Location: Gregory BuildingTutors: Ben Doody BSc, PhD Others TBCCredits: 20 Cost: £230.00Course code: 7476The geology and rocks of North America*Day: Thursday 01/10/15 – 17/03/16Time: 14.00 – 16.00

North America has a huge variety of geological features, ranging from the Maritime Provinces with their close similarities to Scottish geology, to the Precambrian Canadian Shield with the oldest rocks so far known on earth, and then to the tectonically active Western Cordillera. The course will be a systematic study through geological time, including descriptions of the National Parks such as Yosemite, Grand Canyon, and Yellowstone.

This course provides an overview of the techniques used to investigate the Earth's interior, and a summary of the current state of knowledge about processes deep within the Earth that have a direct impact at the surface (including earthquakes, volcanoes, plate tectonics, natural resources). The course will be computer based and together with short talks you will investigate how geophysical techniques are used to determine the location of earthquakes.

The origin of granite and its role in Scotland's past and future*Day: Saturday 05/12/15Time: 10.00 – 16.00

The upper continental crust is granitic in composition. But what are 'granites' and what causes these commonplace rocks to form? This talk and practical experience-based course will show you various granite types, illustrate the controversies over their origins, and lead you to a better understanding of the ways such rocks are generated. The course will uncover what granites tell us about Scotland's fiery geological past and about their potential for future energy production.

Day event

Death of oceans, birth of continents, makers of mountains: a guide to subduction zones.

Day: Saturday 06/02/16

Time: 10.00 – 16.00

Subduction zones are belts of dangerous earthquakes and volcanoes marking the lines where the Earth's tectonic plates are destroyed. But it is also here, in the 'subduction factory', where the continents are made. A lot of the geology we see is made at subduction zones. This one-Day event introduces the causes of subduction, their seismic and volcanic activity, the types of rocks (often strikingly beautiful) created by it and the processes that create them.

Requirements of entry: Familiarity with basic geological science (equivalent to a foundation-level course); familiarity with basic aspects of planetology (for astronomers).

Geology in the field

Day: Wednesday 20/04/16

Time: 10.00 – 13.00

Field studies and examining rocks in the field are the basis of all geology. We will examine the geology and geomorphology of a series of areas within easy reach of Glasgow. You will be shown how to identify a range of rocks and geomorphological features within the landscape by experienced fieldworkers. There will be five full-day excursions by private car. Walking will generally be easy and no prior knowledge of geology needed. A short preliminary meeting will be held the week before to discuss field sites and travel arrangements.

Law, legal systems and legal methods: an Introduction

Day: Wednesday 30/09/15 – 02/12/15
Time: 19.00 – 21.00

This course will help you to understand the basic law, whether as a member of the public or as an introduction to the study of law and becoming a future lawyer. It will outline criminal and civil law, legal systems and methods in today's diverse society, with an emphasis on the law as it applies to Scotland.

Time: 10.00 – 16.00

"Mindfulness is the practice of paying attention from moment to moment to whatever arises, with curiosity and without judgement" (Jon Kabat-Zinn). There is evidence that mindfulness-based approaches can reduce stress and mindfulness concepts are being applied in education, counselling, and business. This experiential taster provides an opportunity to explore the topic at an introductory level.

Day event

Mindfulness and art psychotherapy

Day: Friday 27/05/16
Time: 10.00 – 16.00

Mindfulness is the ability to identify with the present moment without judgments and with appreciation. Mindfulness teaches us to live in the present moment where our real lives are unfolding and where we can make skilful choices. Mindfulness and art psychotherapy go hand in hand, offering both support and challenge. Mindfulness is presented as a way of life that is joyful, spontaneous, energised and engaged. During this day event its application to art and art psychotherapy will be made clear.

Mindfulness and Buddhism

Day: Mon – Thur 20/06/16 – 23/06/16

Time: 10.00 – 16.00

Mindfulness is valuable for anyone wishing to open the door to a fuller, richer experience of life. This four-day course explores how Mindfulness has been drawn from the Buddhist meditation tradition and applied within our current society to enhance wellbeing and effectiveness. Buddhist practice developed mindfulness as a way of waking from the half-life of habit, knee-jerk reaction and limiting self-views, to allow individuals to engage with a more active, conscious role in life.

Information Centre, Centre for Open Studies, St Andrew's Building,
11 Eldon Street, Glasgow, G3 6NH

Please note that the University does not accept Maestro cards.

By telephone

Telephone enrolment lines will normally be open 10am-12pm + 2pm 4pm Monday to Friday. Please call +44 (0)141 330 1860/1853/2772 and have your credit or debit card details and the course code of the courses you wish to take at hand.

Students using a Student Awards Agency for Scotland (SAAS) Part-time Fee Grant will be unable to enrol by telephone.

In person

Please complete an enrolment form and bring it to the Information Office with the appropriate fee (credit/debit card payment, cheque or cash). Please note the University cannot accept cash payments of more than £50.

Important information

All students will be required as a condition of registration (matriculation) to abide by, and to submit to the procedures of, the University's rules and regulations, as amended from time to time. A copy of the current regulations is available, on request, from Student Services, or the University Calendar can be viewed online at:

glasgow.ac.uk/senate/calendar

Every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy of the information contained within this publication but it is subject to alteration without notice. The University will use all reasonable endeavours to deliver courses in accordance with the descriptions set out in this publication. The University, however, reserves the right to make variations to the content or method of delivery of courses and to cancel courses, if such action is reasonably considered to be necessary by the University. In the event of industrial action or other circumstances beyond the University's control interfering with its ability to provide these courses or services, the University will undertake to minimise disruption as far as is practicable.

Data Protection Act

The University collects and processes information, including images, about its students, applicants and potential applicants, for academic, administrative, management, pastoral, and health and safety reasons. Some of this information is considered as sensitive personal data in the terms of the Data Protection Act 1998. The information is provided by a student, applicant or potential applicant or on his/her behalf. It is not possible to become, or remain, a registered (matriculated) student, or to process an application without agreement to provide this information. The information is processed in accordance with the University's Notification with the Information Commissioner under the Data Protection Act 1998, and is disclosed to third parties only with students' consent, or to meet a statutory obligation, or in accordance with the University's Notification with the Information Commissioner, or in accordance with the terms of the Act.

Equality and diversity

The University of Glasgow is committed to promoting equality in all its activities, and aims to provide a work, learning, research and teaching environment free from discrimination and where difference is positively valued.

The University's equality policies and other useful sources of information are available on the website at:

glasgow.ac.uk/equalitydiversity

Funding and fees

If you plan to study credit courses totalling 30 credits or more in the year 2015-16, you may be eligible to apply for the SAAS Part-time Fee Grant (PTFG) which can contribute towards course fees. Students in receipt of certain state benefits or those who are earning £25,000 or less per year, including any private and state pensions, may be eligible. Please note if you are applying for a SAAS PTFG you will need to enrol in person.

For further information visit gla.ac.uk/study/short/ and to download an application pack with completion guidelines please visit the SAAS website at saas.gov.uk or telephone 0300 300 3137.

It is important that you apply for funding for all your courses at the same time at the start of the 2015-16 session. If you add further courses during the year you are unlikely to receive additional SAAS funding and you will need to fund them yourself.

Withdrawals and refunds

Refunds are usually only available if a course is cancelled due to insufficient demand. Please note refunds can take up to six weeks to process.

Cancellation of courses

Classes which do not meet minimum numbers will be subject to cancellation at least seven days before the first meeting. When a course is cancelled, a full refund of fees paid will be made. Please note that if fees have been paid for by cash or cheque then a refund will be made by cheque. Fees paid by debit or credit card will be refunded to the card number provided. Please ensure you enrol early on your chosen course in order to reduce the chance of disappointment.

Postponement of classes

In the event of inclement weather or other unforeseen circumstances, when classes might have to be postponed at short notice, the Centre for Open Studies will make every effort to relay the information via Facebook, Twitter, email or text. If you are uncertain whether a class will be held, please contact the Information Centre on +44 (0)141 330 1835.

Information for students with disabilities

We welcome enquiries and applications from all students including students with dyslexia, chronic medical or mental health conditions, sensory impairments and mobility impairments. We encourage you to disclose as early as possible any disability or condition to ensure that appropriate support is arranged. Criminal conviction criminal conviction: ☐ no ☐ yes (previously notified to CFOS in the last year) ☐ yes (not notified to CFOS)

Please tick the appropriate 'yes' box if you have an unspent criminal conviction. A conviction does not include a motoring offence for which you have received a fine or three penalty points. If you have not been convicted of a criminal offence you must tick the 'no' box. (If you do not tick any box we cannot process your form.) Please see page 101 for details.
