

Provisional Schedule for the Conference

Keynote address and introduction, Thursday, 27 March, 13.00-14.00:
Dr Brendan Simms, 'The history of a concept'

Session One: Thursday, 27 March, 14.30 – 16.00

Dr Gabriel Glickmann (Oxford)	Policy, principle and partisanship: foreign affairs in domestic debate 1672-1697
Dr David Onnekink (Utrecht)	The interest of the whole of Europe'. William III (1689-1702) and his continental policy
Professor Allan MacInnes (Strathclyde)	The Union and the War of the Spanish Succession

Session Two: Thursday, 27 March, 16.30 – 17.30

Dr Gideon Mailer (Cambridge)	The act of 'union' in Scottish-American foreign policy: John Witherspoon and Scottish Covenanter support for American independence
Dr Andrew MacKillop (Aberdeen)	Maximum or Minimum? The impact of Imperial Policy on Eighteenth-Century Scotland

Session Three: Friday, 28 March 9.30 – 11.00

Dr Brendan Simms and Doohwan Ahn	The European balance of power in British parliamentary and pamphlet discourse, 1714-1763
Dr Andrew Thompson (Cambridge)	The development of the executive and foreign policy, 1714-60

Session Four: Friday, 28 March, 11.30-13.30

Professor Anthony Howe (UEA)	Radicalism, free trade and foreign policy in 19 th century
Adrian Brettle	The Conservative Party and foreign policy in the mid-19 th Century
Dr John Bew	Debating the Union on foreign fields: the shaping of Ulster unionism and the importance of Britain's position in the world, c.1830-c.1870
Dr William Mulligan (Glasgow)	The Liberal Party and Foreign Policy, 1868-1886

Session Five: Friday, 28 March, 14.30 – 16.30

Dr Paul Readman (King's, London)	Patriotism, identity, and British politics in the nineteenth century
Dr Thomas Otte (UEA)	High politics, finance and foreign policy, 1874-1914
Dr Duncan Bell (Cambridge)	Indifference and Prophecy: John Robert Seeley on the Proleptic Functions of the Historian

Session Six: Saturday, 28 March, 10.00 – 11.00

Dr Phil O'Brien (Glasgow)	The 1910 general elections and foreign policy
Dr Casper Sylvest (University of South Denmark)	British Liberal Historians and the Primacy of Internationalism

Session Seven: Saturday, 29 March 11.30 – 13.00

Professor David Edgerton (Imperial College, London)	The British state and warfare in the twentieth century
Dr Richard Grayson (Goldsmith's, London)	Inter-war politics and foreign policy
Dr Simon Ball (Glasgow)	Statesmanship and foreign policy in the Great War Generation
Matthew Jamison (Cambridge)	New Labour's Liberal Imperialist Agenda

Round table after lunch: 14.00 – 15.00

If you wish to attend the dinner, this will be an additional cost of £30.00.