

 SPS1001

Measuring Your Social World

- Build your research skills and data literacy through topics such as: what are data, preliminary steps to analysing and visualising data, how information can be skewed by reports and the media, and the concept of statistical analysis and hypothesis testing.
- Integrate programming in R to prepare students to undertake quantitative analyses over the course of their study and beyond.

SCAN ME

SPS2001

Analysing Your Social World

- Introduction to social science data analysis through data visualisation, regression analysis and statistical modelling.
- Learn about the data collection processes and various methods to examining differences and patterns of association with links to the school's thematic areas through using key dataset on topical areas such as: inequality, welfare, health, crime and conflict.

SCAN ME