

ESH1001

ESH 1A: Economic and Social History in Global Contexts, 1750-1914

- Discover how everyday life, economies, and societies changed in the era of industrialisation, European global empires, and the “first wave” of globalisation.
- Investigate economic and social history through hands-on learning with virtual collections and objects.
- Build critical tools for understanding global inequalities, power, and economic and social change in historical perspective.

SCAN ME

ESH1002

ESH 1B: Themes in Globalisation, 1914-c2008

- Engage with contemporary and international history to support understanding of our current society and economy in the light of global and long-term trends.
- Explore the global impact of economic phenomena and social changes in global economies from WWI to the present day.
- Discover the impact(s) of globalisation including looking at developing nations and environmental concerns in the later decades of the 20th century.

SCAN ME

ESH2001

ESH 2A: Britain 1770-1914

- Explore the important economic and social developments that characterised industrialisation and its aftermath in Britain and Ireland from the mid-eighteenth century until the First World War.
- Discover the importance of discussion, debates and interpretation of events.
- Utilise skills and techniques associated with historical and social science investigation.

SCAN ME

ESH2002

ESH 2B: Britain Since 1914

- Explore the important economic and social developments that characterised industrialisation and its aftermath in Great Britain and Ireland from the First World War until the early twenty-first century.
- Investigate the importance of discussion, debates and interpretation of events.
- Elaborate skills and techniques associated with historical and social science investigation.

SCAN ME