

ALEX MORRISON: memories of a generous scholar

WEDNESDAY 2 MAY 2012.

Venue: Lecture Theatre, Gregory Building, Lilybank Gardens, University of Glasgow

9.30-10.00 COFFEE will be available in the foyer of the Gregory Building, Lilybank Gardens

10.00

Prof Steve Driscoll, Archaeology
Alex Morrison: an appreciation

10.30

Dr Nyree Finlay, Archaeology
Microliths, Tuesday Morning and the coastal Mesolithic of Ayrshire revisited

11.15

Dr Kenny Brophy, Archaeology
Halmie, Caithness: A Microcosm of the Bronze Age of Northern Scotland

12.00

Dr Euan Mackie, formerly Curator of Archaeology, Hunterian Museum
Old Maps and Old Ferryhouses: a Prehistorian applies Alex Morrison's ideas in Appin

12.30 – 1.45 LUNCH. There are several local options

1.45

Dr Chris Dalglish, Archaeology
Understanding the Scottish Landscape: a genealogy

2.30

Dr John Atkinson, GUARD Archaeology Limited
Rural Settlement and Milton of Lawers: an appreciation of Alex Morrison

3.15-3.45 COFFEE will be available in the foyer of the Gregory Building, Lilybank Gardens

3.45

Rachel Barrowman, Archaeology
Distant Memories: recovering the late medieval archaeology of Ness, Isle of Lewis

4.15

Dr Tony Pollard, Centre for Battlefield Archaeology
The Fort William Project: Urbanisation in the Scottish Highlands in the 17th and 18th centuries

5.00- WINE RECEPTION to be held in the Conference Room, Gregory Building

This event has been generously sponsored by the Glasgow Archaeological Society, Archaeology at Glasgow University and the Centre for Scottish and Celtic Studies / Ionad Eòlas na h-Alba is na Ceiltis, Glasgow University

IMPORTANT

Please email Dr Colleen Batey, Archaeology, School of Humanities, University of Glasgow to register for this event by no later than Wednesday 25 April colleen.batey@glasgow.ac.uk