What to expect at The Hunterian Museum
At the Hunterian Museum there is something for everyone.

There are world and ancient cultures, animals, archaeology, palaeontology, medical and science collections on display.
The Hunterian Museum entrance is located in the University Main Building and is accessed via this archway.

Come and have a look inside.
To get into The Hunterian Museum, we have a lift. The Museum is on the 4th floor.
If you take the lift, then you will arrive in this room.

It is quiet with bright lights.
The toilets for the Museum are on the 2nd floor.

The lift is located between the men’s and women’s toilets.

There is an accessible toilet which is available to use.
If you prefer stairs, These are beside the lift and can also be used to reach The Museum from the ground floor.

They take you to the cloisters. There are signs pointing to The Hunterian.
There are wooden doors with a sign pointing to The Hunterian. You enter the doors and go up the stairs. This takes you to the main entrance.
If you arrive via the stairs, then you will arrive in the first exhibition space.

There are lots of Roman objects in this room.

It is lit with natural lighting and lights on the objects.
This is the reception desk. If you need any help, there is always someone here that is happy to help you.
This is our staff uniform.

If you have any questions during your visit, our staff are happy to help you!

We have student volunteers who run tours. Sometimes they approach visitors to ask if they would like to join the tour.
There are some interactive screens and videos playing in the museum.

The videos change and all have subtitles.
There is also a display about collecting and antiquities such as coins.

Next to the Antiquities and Collecting display is the entrance to the Main Hall.

It is through this doorway.
There is lots of room to move around and lit-up display windows with objects to see.
This is the Main Hall.

There is seating available in the middle of the room.

You can sit and look at the displays.
Sometimes we have talks or events in this space.

The Museum is more busy and noisy during these events. There are student-led tours held often.

You can ask our staff when these events take place. Events are also listed on our website:
https://www.gla.ac.uk/hunterian/visit/events/
There are folding stool chairs available.

You can take and use them in any part of the museum.
Some of our objects have ‘do not touch’ signs.

This is because they are very fragile. You can look at them for as long as you like.
Sometimes our objects are not on display.

There will be signs to tell you where they are and why they are not on display.

You can contact us to check if particular objects are there. We are happy to help you.
At the back of the hall we have our Temporary exhibition space.

It changes 2-3 times a year.

This is just one of the exhibitions we hold in this space.
The fire alarm is a loud continuous siren noise. This will only ring if visitors have to leave quickly.

The fire exit is located behind the lift at the back of the hall.

Our staff will direct you out and let you know when it is safe to return.
There are staircases at the front and back of the hall.

You can go up these to see the exhibitions upstairs.
There is also a lift available at the back of the hall.

Please let a member of staff know if you need to use the lift.

We are happy to help you.
Upstairs you will find displays about the history of science and medicine.

On one side there are medical objects including jars with medical specimens and tools.
On the other side there are scientific displays such as objects once used for teaching science.

There is a mixture of natural and artificial lighting.

There is a member of staff on the balcony who is happy to answer any questions you have.
We hope you enjoy your visit!
