

A big thank you to all who took the time out to attend the facilities review drop in sessions which took place during August and September, where we discussed the journey to date, explored the operating model options along with sharing the proposed facilities cluster model and the supporting design principles.

We also shared a “road map” so that everyone can see an indication of timings and what is happening when.

At the sessions we asked you what your hopes & fears and if you had any questions so that we could make this journey as smooth as possible for you all, we captured these here-

The next steps are detailing the job roles

We have identified clusters and have thoughts on new roles, but we would like to co-create with yourselves, Union representatives and services users to explore your thoughts and views on the new roles and what tasks align to them also discussion on work patterns.

How can you get involved?

As the project work progresses, we will set up more focus groups and co creation sessions where you can speak with Lorna and Allison. If you would like to be involved, then please contact ecs-executiveleadership-hub@glasgow.ac.uk

You can also speak with your manager or supervisor to pass on feedback about the project at any time. We are committed to improving communication as we work through the review.
