Enrolment Guidance for Microcredentials

Enrolment is the process for choosing the courses you study as a student at the University of Glasgow. You cannot access the course, until you have completed enrolment.

Enrolling on a Microcredential is simple. After you have completed academic registration, you will be able to enrol on your specific course. To get started, Log into MyGlasgow and select MyCampus > Student Centre > Enrolments

Next, click ‘My Requirements' and select the course which you secured a place on. Please note: you will see a range of courses appear, but you MUST ONLY select the course for which you received confirmation (via email) that you secured a place. This was the email which contained the link to the admission form you submitted.

Once you have completed enrolment, you will receive an email from FutureLearn, to your student email address, with a link to join the course. For more information on accessing your student email, click here. (https://www.gla.ac.uk/myglasgow/it/studentemail/)
