

Women's History: Sources

How to use this list of sources

This is a list of some of the collections that may provide a useful starting point when researching this subject. More detailed lists are available in the searchroom and from our online catalogue. Enquiries should be directed to the Duty Archivist; see contact details at the end of this source list.

Education

University of Glasgow: The matriculation albums, class lists, rolls of graduates and records of the academic departments show the progress of the University of Glasgow's female students from the first in 1892 to the present day. We have created databases on early female matriculants, which can be accessed in the search room by arrangement.

Queen Margaret College (GUAS Ref: DC 233): We also have the records of Queen Margaret College, which was established in 1883 (and was then the only college for the Higher Education of women in Scotland) and merged with the University in 1892. These contain information about the early development of higher education for women in Scotland in general as well as details of individual members of staff, students and patrons.
