Dental, Medical and Nursing Students – Important Information

In accordance with current Department of Health guidance, students should protect colleagues and themselves by being immunised against serious communicable diseases where vaccines are available and effective, prior to starting their course or should arrange this as soon as possible following your arrival.

To support this it is recommended that all students are vaccinated against the following:

Diphtheria Tetanus and Polio

Most students will have had five vaccines prior to finishing high school, with last vaccine given within the past 10 years. Please ensure you are up to date.

Meningitis ACWY

Every year in the UK at least one avoidable death will occur due to meningitis in new students arriving at Universities and often within the first few weeks. You should have been vaccinated before coming to University or should arrange this as soon as possible following your arrival.

Measles, Mumps and Rubella (MMR)

It is recommended that students have two MMR vaccines prior to starting their course. Annually there are cases of Mumps amongst students, which are unpleasant and carry serious side effects for male students.

The above vaccines are available from your own doctor.

HELPFUL INFORMATION

Doctors’ Surgeries

An effective way to find a local National Health Service General Practitioner (and a range of other NHS services) is through the web site for Scotland’s Health on the Web.

This site allows you to search for a local General Practitioner by your postcode.
